The Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ

“They all ate and were satisfied.” Why read the miracle of the multiplication of the loaves this Sunday? Here we see the mystery of our physical and spiritual realities intermingling. Too often, they can feel separate. When we go to Mass, how often we appear more ordinarily human rather than stretching toward the divine.

Perhaps our experience of the Eucharist is fairly mundane. We notice when a new sacramental wine has been selected. We feel the varying textures of the host and wonder if they’ll ever bring back the one that tasted distinctly like wheat. As we shuffle up to the front and stride back to our pew, we notice the looks on people's faces and the clothes on their backs. We get distracted by the crying child, the man blowing his nose, and the mechanical sound of the air conditioner kicking in. How human we are, how earth-bound, how material!

And how good God is for entering into these selfsame realities. How good God is for proclaiming “the kingdom of God,” for “healing those who needed to be cured,” for having mercy on a tired and hungry crowd. How many of the crowd noticed what had been done for them? Did they realize their dinner was a miracle? How often do we miss the deeper reality of the Eucharist? Even if in the moment of receiving Communion we don't experience radical ecstasy and don't feel any different, there is a tangible reality to cling to. Our God loves us enough to become bread for us, not only to feed us but to be fed upon by us.

Eric’s Music Notes

The name Melchizedek is based on the Hebrew word zedek, meaning “righteousness” or “justice”. Psalm 110 uses this name in reference to the king appointed by God over the people Israel. The Lectionary uses the psalm to prefigure Christ. Melchizedek offers Abram bread and wine and God's blessing (first reading). Jesus blesses the hungry crowd with abundant bread miraculously created from meager supplies (gospel). In the Eucharist Jesus blesses us with his own Body and Blood as our food (second reading). When we eat his Body and drink his Blood we choose to do in remembrance of him that which he has done for us: giving of self so that others may have life. (Cry Out With Joy, GIA Publications)

The Solemnity of the Body and Blood of Christ developed in the thirteenth century to promote belief in the full and true presence of Christ in the Eucharist. In our Opening Hymn, Alleluia! Sing to Jesus! we hear that Christ is the Bread of Angels, the food we believe in by faith. He is the eternal king, who is both priest and victim. In our Preparation hymn, God's Holy Gift, we are thankful for this broken bread, which strengthens our body and spirit. Our Communion Hymn, Gift of Finest Wheat invites us to eat the bread of life and to drink the cup of love. In our Recessional, Shepherd of Souls, we are reminded that we are fed not only on bread, but also on the word that gives us strength to trust in our God of abundance.
