ANNOUNCEMENTS AND INSPIRATION

24th Sunday in Ordinary Time - When Peter asked Jesus how often he must forgive the person who wrongs him, he probably thought he was being generous in suggesting seven times as the possible answer. Perhaps Peter even expected praise; at last Jesus would recognize that Peter was on the right track. He had finally grasped that God's ways are more abundant than human ways, that God wants us to that little bit further, forgiving more than just once or twice. Jesus' answer to Peter wasn't what Peter expected. If we could go back and see Peter's facial expression as he heard Jesus' response, it would probably have been a combination of shock and horror. Not forgiveness seven times, but seventy times seven times – in other words, as often as required; or put another way, we are to always forgive and without ceasing.

To explore the significance of forgiveness more fully, Jesus adds the story we know as the parable of the unforgiving servant. A master who mercifully cancels a great debt to his servant, later learns that the same servant has been cruelly unforgiving in canceling a much smaller debt owed to him. The master's anger is so great that he recalls his servant, withdraws his generosity, and imprisons him until the debt is paid in full. In telling the parable, Jesus didn't just want to illustrate his answer to Peter's question. He wanted to explain not merely how often we must forgive, but also why we should forgive the other person when they wrong us.

If we can be forgiven much, and we certainly can through God's love and compassion, then, in gratitude and imitation of God's way, we too should forgive much in return. Ecclesiasticus puts it another way: "If someone nurses anger against another, can they demand compassion from the Lord?" St Paul helps deepen this understanding: because we belong to the Lord and live under Christ's reign, His forgiveness and reconciliation will have an impact in our lives, and, through us, on the lives of other people. And, finally, if we look at the words of Jesus when His disciples asked Him to teach them how to pray, part of that prayer states: "forgive us as we forgive each other." These words should sober us to the point of asking ourselves how well we do forgive another's wrongs towards us. Because, as those words state — if we do not forgive others, should we then ask — does God withhold forgiveness from us when we seek forgiveness for ourselves?

Hate is one of the capital sins. Hate is one of the reasons we do not forgive. Hate is a strong word, but to a greater or lesser degree we all know that feeling in our hearts. Sometimes the hating must stop and the forgiveness begin. We face conflict all around us – with family, friends, and even strangers. We carry our prejudices and judgments, we cling to the hurts and offenses caused by others. (Sometimes we carry the hurts so long, we no longer remember why we feel hurt / why we're still mad at the other person. If that's the case, then it is time to let go and allow God to move into our lives to help us in the forgiving). Whatever its form, however trivial, however serious, there is a time for hating to stop in every life, in all our relationships, and throughout. This may not always be easy. In fact it most probably will not be easy. It might not even be able to happen quickly, but we need to recapture the fact that we live for the Lord, not merely for ourselves. Hating will only stop when forgiveness begins.

Let us pray for the Conversion of the-World & for Peace.

Just Kidden' - One New Year's Eve at London's Garrick Club, British dramatist Frederick Lonsdale was asked by Seymour Hicks to reconcile with a fellow member. The two had quarreled in the past and never restored their friendship. "You must," Hicks said to Lonsdale. "It is very unkind to be unfriendly at such a time. Go over now and wish him a happy New Year." So Lonsdale crossed the room and spoke to his enemy. "I wish you a happy New Year," he said, "but only one."

THIS WEEK – the Church celebrates two great Feasts.

September 14 – Triumph of the Holy Cross. St Paul the Apostle spoke of the power of Christ's Cross. According to tradition, the Empress Helena discovered the Lord's Cross in Jerusalem on September 14, 320. Five years later, a great church was built on Mount Calvary by Emperor Constantine to shelter the holy relic. Parts of the wood of the Cross were sent to the major cities of Christendom, where they were shown to the faithful on this special feast. We may want to repeat those words, from time to time, that we use during Lent: "We adore You, O Christ, and we praise You, because by Your Holy Cross You have redeemed the world."

ALSO – on September 15 we have the feast of Our Lady of Sorrows. This Feast, popular in the middle ages, recalls the special bond between Jesus and Mary and reminds us of the torment and suffering of Jesus. Mary suffered greatly as the Mother of God, and the pain she felt was real. The Feast of Our Lady of Sorrows recalls the succession of sorrows that Mary experienced during her life: the prophecy from Simeon in the Temple, the flight into Egypt, the loss of Jesus on the pilgrimage, meeting Jesus on the way to Calvary, the hours she stood beneath the Cross, the removal of Jesus from the Cross, and the burial of Jesus.
